School Library Media Program

The School Library Media Program of Allegany County is an integral part of the learning process. The school library media specialist uses state and national standards and curricula to maintain a program that supports life-long learning. In each school, the library media specialist assists the learning community in becoming active and creative locators, evaluators, and users of information.

School Library Media Specialist
Roles and Responsibilities

The school library media specialist connects learning between students, teachers, administrators, and parents by promoting interests, addressing needs, and integrating the use of telecommunications technologies in order to foster learning, personal growth, and enjoyment. The goal of the school library media program is to develop information literate students, assisting them to become active users of information in order to problem-solve, think critically, and complete research. The school library media specialist works collaboratively with teachers, administrators, and the community to build the strong foundation of information literate learners, users, and performers.

The five main roles of the school library media specialist are leader, teacher, instructional partner, information specialist, and program administrator as addressed in Information Power: Building Partnerships for Learning (ALA). These roles interconnect to form the responsibilities of specialists in the library media center through accountability, global outreach, technologies, and accessibility.
