Service-Learning at a Glance

Service-Learning is:
Service-learning is combining meaningful service to the community with curriculum-based learning.

Three Types of Service:
• Direct – personal, face-to-face contact
• Indirect – channeling resources to the need rather than working directly
• Advocacy – lending voices or talents to eliminate a specific problem

Stages of Service-Learning:
Preparation
Action
Reflection

Best Practices:
➢ Meet a recognized need in the community.
➢ Achieve curricular objectives through service-learning.
➢ Reflect throughout the service-learning experience.
  ➢ Develop student responsibility.
  ➢ Establish community partnerships.
  ➢ Plan ahead for service-learning.
➢ Equip students with the knowledge and skills needed for service.